Orioles calendar dog feared stolen in Baltimore

A sort of famous Baltimore dog was nabbed Tuesday night from her backyard.

A two and a half year-old pit bull mix named Cuji, who's Ms. October in the Maryland SPCA's just-released 2010 Oriole's calendar, was taken from her yard in Belair-Edison, her owners tell Unleashed. Cuji poses in the calendar with the Orioles' Koji Uehara.

Brian Willis, an engineer who adopted the dog in June, said he was out when his fiance called him to ask if the dog was with him -- because he wasn't there. The couple lives in the 3300 block of Brendan Avenue.

Willis said Cuji was last seen in her fenced back yard, wearing a collar that someone snapped off. She weighs about 70 pounds.

"Who knows where she is now," he said Friday.

On Friday, Willis was getting help from the nonprofit group Dogs finding Dogs, where trained, retired police dogs help lead searches for missing pets. German Shepherd Heidi was going to be looking for Cuji. Willis has also called a number of area shelters and placed missing dog notices online. Cuji is microchipped.

"We'll send the dog out back and see how far the travel path goes out, possibly where it stops. Somebody local might have the dog," said the group's Anne Willis. "We're trying to get the pieces of this puzzle."

Willis went to check for Cuji at BARCS on Wednesday, where Baltimore Animal Control takes found dogs, and plans to go back every three days in case the dog is found or someone turns her in. He said he called the police, but that the police didn't take a report.

"She's a very special dog," he said.

Aileen Gabbey, executive director of the MD SPCA, said her staff will be on the lookout for Cuji.

"We definitely remember Cuji and hope that she is ok," she said Saturday. "There are Good Samaritans out there who bring us lost animals every day. We do hope that Cuji is found safe and sound."

About Jill Rosen

Jill Rosen is a reporter at The Baltimore Sun. During her nearly 20 years in journalism, she has covered news and features — including a surprising number of stories that involved animals. There were the dog Christmas carolers in State College, Pa. There were the hounds who toured with a production of Chitty Chitty Bang Bang. The story of a preschool teacher at Baltimore's Father Kolbe School who had to replace her class guinea pig, who died over the winter holiday. A harrowing tale of what it was like to make homemade pet food ...

Though her clean freak of a mother refused to allow her to get a dog, she has had a number of pets through the years, including goldfish named Bob and Fingle, a betta fish named Ichabod, a wild rat terrier named Wendel, who she shared with a roommate, and, currently, sweet, sweet kitties named Leo Sesame and Milo Pumpkin and a little rescued pup named Teddy Bean. She, Leo, Pumpkin and Teddy Bean live in Baltimore.

This is so sad and heartbreaking. I hope Cuji can be found soon. The worst part is not knowing what happened.

Please remember to always supervise pets in the yard. They are too frequently stolen by people with very bad intentions.

You don't expect drug dealer dog fighters to blood train their pits on cats and lap dogs all the time, do you?

God, I hate this filthy town.

The police didn't take a report? Why? Isn't theft a crime anymore? Here's the problem with our city - lack of enforcement of our laws. I'm all for education and rehabilitation but in the meantime people need to feel that there are repercussions for their illegal actions. Judges can order the return of bait dogs to their drug-dealing, dog-fighting owners because it's their "property" but they won't treat this man's dog as "property" in this scenario?

No one is safe here anymore - including our pets.

My heart goes out to the owner and I truly hope the dog is found or returned to him especially for the dog's sake.
